CONTENTS

Preface

INTRODUCTION:
Characteristics of the Eighteenth Century. 1-5

PART ONE
THE MUGHALS, THE PERSIANS
AND THE AFGHANS

Chapter 1: Dynastic Succession 6-23

Section A: Struggles for the throne, 1707-12.
   i) Civil War after Aurangzeb’s death, 6
   ii) Problem of Succession, 1712, 14.

Section B: King-making, 1713-20, 17
   Genealogical Table, 20

Section C: Muhammad Shah and his favourites, 21

Section D: Puppet or Phantom Show, 1748-1806, 21.

Chapter 2: Mughal Court Politics: Personalities & Politics. (1707-65) 24-107

Section A: Factious Parties and Party Politics (1707-65), 24
   Chart to illustrate Party Politics, 33

Section B: The Problem of Personal Equation, 36
   i) Decline in the character of the monarch, 36
   ii) Decadence of the Aristocracy, 38
   iii) The Problem of the Wizarat, 44

Section C: Kings and Wazirs: Problems & Policies, 46
   I. Bahadur Shah (1707 12), Wazir Munim Khan, 1707-11; Character, 46; Problems and Policies, 47-61, (i) Appointments, 47; (ii) Parties, 49; (iii) Policy towards Hindus,—Rajputs, 50; Sikhs, 53; the Deccan, 56; (iv) Administrative Problems, 59.
II. Jahandar Shah (1712-13)—the Wazirat of Zulfiqar Khan, 61; Reasons of Failure of Zulfiqar, 66.
III. Farrukhisiyar (1713-19)—Wazir Abdullah Khan Sayyid: character, 68 (i) Court politics & parties, 69; (ii) Policy towards Hindus, 70; (iii) Conflict with the Sayyids, 73; (iv) Deposition of Farrukhisiyar, conduct of the Sayyid Brothers, 81.

Appendix: Early history of the Sayyid Brothers, 84.

IV. Muhammad Shah (1719-48): His wazirs—character, 86; Divisions of the reign:
(A) Period of New Wazirat (1719-20),—Problems and Policies, 88; Causes of the Failure of the Sayyids, 94.
(B) From the fall of the Sayyids to Nadir Shah's invasion (1720-39), 97.
(C) Post-Nadir Shah Period (1739-48), 98.

V. Ahmad Shah (1748-54) and his wazirs; character, 100; Court politics, 101.
VI. Alamgir II (1754-59) and his wazirs, 103.
VII. Shah Alam II (1759-1806) and his wazirs; character: his instruments, 105.

Chapter 3: Foreign Invasions 108-143

Section A: Nadir Shah's Invasion, 1739, 108-126
I. Circumstances leading to the invasion: Conditions in Persia—conditions in the Mughal Empire, 108
II. Nadir's Objectives, 113.
III. Causes of Nadir's success, 115.
IV. Effects of Nadir's Invasion, 118

Section B: Ahmad Shah Durrani's Invasions, 1748-69, 127-143; Ahmad Shah, 127; Circumstances and effects of his first five invasions (1749-61), 128; First Invasion (1747-48): Capture of Lahore and Sirhind, 130; conduct of Mughal government, 131; Second Invasion (1748-50): Loss of Chahar Mahals,
Chapter 4: Administrative Decline (1707-65) 144-170

Section A: The Background—Structure & spirit—factors in decline, political, military, socio-economic, 144.

Section B: Effects of Abeyance of monarchy on Administration: From Shah Alam I to Shah Alam II, 148.

Section C: Foreign Invasions, 151.

Section D: Internal Disturbances and Insecurity, 152

Section E: Revenue & Finance, (1707-59), 154

Section F: Judicial Administration, 163.

Section G: Provincial Administration, 166

Section H: Espionage System, 168

Section I: Police, 169.

PART TWO
THE HINDU REVIVAL IN 18TH CENTURY: ITS NATURE

Chapter 5: The Marathas, (1707-61) 173-307

Section A: Chhatrapati Shahu (1708-49) and Balaji Vishwanath. 173-186.

I. The Dual Monarchy in Maharashtra—Return of Shahu, 173-174; Civil War between Shahu and Tarabai, 174-178.

II. Balaji Vishwanath Peshwa (1713-20)—Early life, 179; Shahu's position stabilised, 180; Diplomatic achievements, 181; Internal Administration, 184; Estimate, 186.
Section B:  Shahu & Baji Rao I (1720-40), 187-218.

I. Baji Rao becomes Peshwa: hereditary Peshwa-ship, 187—character, 187; his Tasks, 188.

II. Baji Rao's Imperial Policy of Hindu Pad Padshahi, 188-211.

(a) The Peshwa vs. the Pratinidhi: pros & cons, 188
(b) The Maratha conquests in Malwa & Gujrat, 192
(c) Maratha-Nizam Relations: Stages thereof, 196
(d) Delhi Reactions to the Maratha Push to the north: Appeasement or Resistance, 204.

(e) Battle of Bhopal, 207

III. Baji Rao in the Konkan—(a) The Angrias, 211: (b) The Janjira Campaign, 212; (c) The War with the Portuguese, 213.

IV. Estimate, 215.

Section C:  Shahu and Balaji Baji Rao (1740-49): 219-229

I. Domestic Politics—Balaji Rao becomes Peshwa, 219; Problems before Balaji, 220; Royal succession: Ram Raja succeeds Shahu, 220.

II. Significance of Shahu's Reign, 222—(a) The Maratha Confederacy, 222; (b) Imperial Expansion, 227; (c) The Rise of the Peshwas, 227; (d) Shahu not a cipher, 227.

Section D:  Ram Raja and Balaji Rao (1750-61): 229-307

I. Domestic Politics—Ram Raja and Tara Bai, 229; The Peshwa's usurpation: Sangola Agreement (1750), 230; Tara Bai's last Bid for power, 233; The Bhonsle and the Angria, 235.

II. Internal Administration—Civil government, 237; Changes in Military Organisation, 239.

III. Imperial Expansion—Balaji Rao's Imperial Policy, 241-271.

A. Expansion in the Deccan—(1) The Peshwa and the Nizam, 243; (2) Role of Bussy in Peshwa-Nizam contest, 244; (3) Expansion in the Karnataka (1752-60), 247; (4) The Zenith and exit of Bussy, 248; (5) The Peshwa and the Nizam—the Battle of Udgir, 1760, 251.

B. Expansion in the North: (1) The Continued progress in Malwa and Bundelkhand, 253; (2) Maratha-Rajput Relations (1741-60), 254; (i) Jaipur episode: Malhar Rao Holkar, 255; (ii) Bundi dispute, 257; (iii) Marwar venture of the Sindhia, 257; (iv) Enters Raghunath Rao: Two invasions 1753-55, 1756-57, 259 (v) Sindhia and Holkar again, 1758-60, 260. (3) The Marathas as arbiters of the Empire, 261. (a) Maratha help sought in Delhi (1747-52), 261, (b) Civil war in Delhi, 1753, 263, (c) Marathas courted by the Wazir and Bakhshi, 265 (d) Marathas as makers of Wazir and Emperor, 265, (e) Abdali first opposed by the Marathas, 1757, 266 (f) Raghunath Rao's second Northern Invasion (1757-58)—(i) To Delhi, Lahore & Attock, 267, (ii) Folly of the Northern Push, 270.

IV. The Third Battle of Panipat, 272-307: The Maratha-Afghan Confrontation: 272

1. Sources, 274-279.

2. Causes of the Maratha failure at Panipat, 279

A. Immediate Factors: Relative position of the two armies—rival generals & captains, 280,—strength of the two armies, 281, discipline and internal cohesion, 282, arms and armour 283, Maratha army unwieldy, 284.

Chapter 6 : The Sikhs (1708-69) 308-358

I. Character of the Sikh struggle for independence in the eighteenth century, 308.

II. Banda and Sikh Peasant Revolt (1708-16)—his early activities, 309—in the plains, 311, in the west, 312—Early Sikh polity, 313

III. The period from 1716 to 1752, 316—Policy of Persecution, 316—Its failure, 317—Policy of appeasement, 317.

—Nadir Shah and after (1739-52), 319

1. Sikhs helped by Nadir’s invasion, 319

2. Zakariya Khan’s anti-Sikh measures, 320

(a) Adina Beg Khan in Jalandhar Doab, 320

(b) Beyond the Sutlej, 321.

3. Weakness of the Punjab Government and Sikh reprisals, 322

4. Civil War in the Punjab, 324

5. The Sikhs and the Afghans : first three invasions of Ahmad Abdali (1748-52), —First Invasion 325, —Sikh reorganisation 326,—The Governor’s Crusade 327,—Second Invasion and renewed persecution 329,—Sikh respite from Muin-Safdar rivalry 329,—resumption of offensive 330—Third Invasion 330.

IV. The Period from 1752-68: From Reorganization to victory 331—Sikh recuperation 331—Renewed persecution 331. (a) Measures of the governor 331—(b) Adina Beg Khan 332—Causes of survival of the Sikhs 332—The Punjab under Sikh protection : The Rakhi system (1753-1757),
V. Reasons of Durrani failure and of Sikh success, 352.

Chapter 7: The Rajputs 359-379

1. Characteristics of Rajput history in the Eighteenth Century: causes of decline, 359
2. Rajput-Mughal Relations, 1707-40, 364
3. Domestic history of principal Rajput states & their rulers. 365 (a) Bundi, 366 (b) Amber-Jaipur: role of Jai Singh II, 367 (c) Marwar, 373
4. Rajput-Maratha Relations: Maratha Penetration into Rajputana (1734-61), 374—Post-Panipat period, 377

Chapter 8: The Jats (Till 1764) and the Bundelas 380-392

Section A: The Jat Struggle for independence, 380—Churaman (1695-1721), 381—Badan Singh (1722-56), 383—Raja Suraj Mal, (1756-64), 387
Section B: The Bundelas, Chhatrasal and the Marathas, 391
PART THREE
RISE OF INDEPENDENT STATES

Chapter 9: Provincial Kingdoms

Section A: Bengal 1710 to 1740—From Murshid Quli to Sarfaraz Khan, 394

Section B: The Hyderabad State (1724-62)
1. Nizam u1 Mulk Asaf Jah, 395
2. His Administration & Policy, 397
3. The Period from 1748-62, 399

Section C: The Punjab (1713-68), 400

Section D: Oudh (1722-65), 404
Saadat Khan Burhan u1 Mulk (1722-39), 404—Safdar Jang (1739-54), 407—Wazir of the Empire (1748-54), 407—Shuja ud daula (1754-75), 416

Chapter 10: The Indian Afghans

The Afghan immigrants, 417—Principal settlements, 418—Shahjahanpur district, 418—Farrukhabad, 418; Rohilkhand, 418; The Ruhelas, 419; Najib, 420—Bengal and Bihar, 421.

AUTHORITIES

MAPS
1. India in 1761 (Chapter 2) To face P. 96
2. To illustrate Foreign Invasions (Chapter 3) To face P. 126
3. To illustrate Maratha Ascendancy (Chapter 5) To face P. 240
4. To illustrate Sikh Struggle for Independence (Chapter 6) To face P. 312

INDEX 447