CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

By C.W. Crawley, Fellow of Trinity Hall and Lecturer in History in the University of Cambridge

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Some problems</td>
<td>1–3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Economic and social change</td>
<td>3–7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The political map</td>
<td>7–11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The political climate</td>
<td>11–13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forms of government and constitutions</td>
<td>13–20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>France and her influence</td>
<td>13–14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prussia and Germany</td>
<td>14–16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Austria and Italy</td>
<td>16–17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spain, Portugal and the smaller States</td>
<td>17–18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Russia</td>
<td>18–19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Americas</td>
<td>19–20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International relations of governments</td>
<td>20–23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International conservatism and radicalism</td>
<td>23–26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Education and public opinion</td>
<td>26–28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Science and Technology</td>
<td>28–29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Religion and the Arts</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The intuitive and the positivist spirit</td>
<td>29–30</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER II

ECONOMIC CHANGE IN ENGLAND AND EUROPE, 1780–1830

By R.M. Hartwell, Fellow of Nuffield College and Reader in recent Social and Economic History in the University of Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The growth of populations</td>
<td>31–33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Agriculture and food supply</td>
<td>33–37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Communications</td>
<td>37–40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>England the ‘engine of growth’</td>
<td>40–47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Industry</td>
<td>40–45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commerce</td>
<td>45–46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International finance</td>
<td>46–47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Economic conditions in Europe generally</td>
<td>47–48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Italy, Spain, Russia, Austria, Scandinavia</td>
<td>48–52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Germany</td>
<td>52–53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Netherlands</td>
<td>54–56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>France</td>
<td>56–57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Combined effect of industrial and political change</td>
<td>57–59</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

CHAPTER III

ARMED FORCES AND THE ART OF WAR

A. ARMIES

By N.H. Gibbs, Fellow of All Souls College and Chichele Professor of the History of War in the University of Oxford

- 'The nation in arms' more revolutionary than technical progress: Clausewitz pages 60–61
- The French revolutionary and imperial armies .............................................. 61–65
- The Prussian revival ......................................................................................... 65–66
- Size of armies .................................................................................................. 66–67
- Weapons ........................................................................................................... 67
- The roles of artillery, cavalry and infantry .................................................. 67–74
- Supplies ............................................................................................................. 74–75
- Napoleon's personal role ................................................................................ 75–76

B. NAVIES

By C.C. Lloyd, Professor of History at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich

- New scale and decisiveness of warfare .......................................................... 76
- British advantages: fighting and merchant navies; overseas bases ............. 77–78
- The French navy ............................................................................................... 78–80
- British naval administration .......................................................................... 80–82
- Ships and their armament ............................................................................. 82–84
- The supply and training of officers and seamen .......................................... 84–86
- Impressment, and the right of search; privateering ..................................... 86–90

CHAPTER IV

REVOLUTIONARY INFLUENCES AND CONSERVATISM IN LITERATURE AND THOUGHT

By H.G. Schenk, Senior Lecturer in European Economic and Social History in the University of Oxford

- Voices of welcome to liberty and fraternity .................................................... 91–94
- The idea of equality; the movement against slavery ..................................... 95–99
- Patriotism and nationalism; the romantic revulsion ..................................... 99–104
- The French émigrés ....................................................................................... 104–05
- de Maistre; Bonald; von Haller ....................................................................... 105–07
- The new revolutionary generation. Shelley and Byron ............................... 107–08
- Reactions to industrial change ...................................................................... 109–12
- Saint-Simon. The early French socialistes ................................................ 112–16
- The issues presented by Lamennais ............................................................... 116–17

CHAPTER V

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

By C.C. Gillispie, Professor of the History of Science, University of Princeton

- The transition from Enlightenment to Positivism: from Condillac to Comte  118–19
- French achievements in science and its organisation .................................. 119–26
- The Institut national and other institutions .............................................. 119–21
- The École polytechnique: a new spirit in education .................................. 121–23
- The influence of Laplace and others .............................................................. 124–26
- Napoleon's 'cultural imperialism'. ................................................................ 126
- Berlin, and the German Universities ............................................................. 126–29
- British empirical achievements. Russia and the United States.................. 129–31
- The golden age of analysis: mathematics and physics ............................... 131–34
CONTENTS

The way of experiment: laboratories .................................................. pages 134–41
  Chemistry and Physics ................................................................. 134–36
  Biology: an organic or a physical science? .................................. 136–38
  Cuvier and Lamarck ................................................................. 138–40
  Geology .................................................................................. 140–41
  Technology: the links with pure science still slender ................. 141–45 engineers and chemists .......................................................... 141–43
    the iron industry; machine tools; dyes; heat engines .......... 143–45
  Electricity and the marriage of science with industry ................... 145

CHAPTER VI

RELIGION: CHURCH AND STATE IN EUROPE AND THE AMERICAS

By John Walsh, Fellow of Jesus College, Oxford

Cross and Tricolour in France ................................................ 146–54
  From the Civil Constitution to systematic 'dechristianisation' .... 146–47
  The revolutionary cults and their symbolism ......................... 147–49
  The separation between Church and State (1794–1802) ............. 149–51
  The Concordat between Napoleon and Pius VII (1809–2) ......... 152–54
  Secularisation in Germany (1803–6). Italian Concordat (1803) . 154–55
  From Napoleon's coronation to the Pope's abduction (1804–9) .. 155–57
  Resistance by the clergy in Italy, Spain, Belgium and France .... 158–60
  The religious revival. Romantic and other influences .............. 160–63
  Protestant confessionalism and pietism: on the Continent, in Britain and America 163–65
  Problems of biblical history and authorship. Schleiermacher .... 167–69
  Problems of 'restoration' in Catholic Europe and South America after 1815 169–72
  From 'throne and altar' towards coexistence or separation ....... 172–75
  The conflict in France ............................................................ 175–76
  Protestant variations in relations between Churches and the State .. 176–77
  The situation in England .......................................................... 177–78

CHAPTER VII

EDUCATION, AND PUBLIC OPINION

By John Roach, Fellow of Corpus Christi College and Lecturer in Education in the University of Cambridge

The ferment of vocal opinion: attempts to control it, and to form it .... 179–80
  England: press, periodical and pamphlet ............................... 180–83
  France: growing severity of controls over the press, 1793–1814 .... 183–85
  Central Europe: governments distrustful of popular sentiment against Napoleon 185–87
  The battles for the capture of opinion after 1815: in France ....... 187–89
    in Europe generally ............................................................... 190–92
  Conflicts between liberal and idealist ways of thinking ........... 192–93
  Educational theories and practice: Pestalozzi, Robert Owen ........ 193–95
  Wilhelm von Humboldt: German Universities and schools ........ 195–96
  State controls over education: Germany, France and Russia ....... 196–200
  English experiments in education: the role of the Churches ....... 201–03
  European conflicts between Churches and the State in education .... 203–06
  Methods of teaching: Bell and Lancaster .................................. 206–07
  The problem of the purpose of popular education ................. 207–08
CONTENTS

CHAPTER VIII
SOME ASPECTS OF THE ARTS IN EUROPE

A. THE VISUAL ARTS
By David Thomas, Assistant Director of Art, Arts Council of Great Britain
(formerly Lecturer in the Courtauld Institute of Art)

Painting ............................................. pages 209–22
France ............................................... 209–16
England ............................................. 216–20
Germany ............................................ 220–21
Spain .................................................. 221–22
Sculpture .......................................... 222
Architecture ....................................... 222–28
France .............................................. 222–25
England ............................................ 225–28

B. MUSIC
By F. W. Sternfeld, Lecturer in Music in the University of Oxford

The social role of music and its composers .................. 228–30
Haydn, and van Swieten ................................ 230–33
Beethoven: earlier works .............................. 233–38
Opera, and Beethoven’s Fidelio ......................... 238–42
Beethoven: later works ................................ 242–44
Schubert: the songs, and other works .................... 245–49

CHAPTER IX
✓ THE BALANCE OF POWER DURING THE WARS, 1793–1814
By Geoffrey Bruun, formerly Professor of History, University of New York

The powers in 1789: apparent weakness of France .... 250–52
Confused positions, 1789–93 ............................ 252–54
The first coalition against France, 1793–7 ............... 254–55
The French in Egypt: the second coalition, 1798–1801 .. 256–60
The Peace of Amiens and its rupture, 1801–3 ............. 260–64
Events leading to the third coalition and to its collapse, 1803–6 264–66
The Peace of Tilsit and the continental blockade, 1807–8 .. 268–69
French invasion of Spain, and defeat of Austria, 1808–10 .. 269–70
The breach with Russia and the tragedy of 1812 ........ 270–72
The victories of the Grand Alliance (fourth coalition), 1813–14 .. 272–74
The Napoleonic hegemony in historical perspective .. 274

CHAPTER X
✓ THE INTERNAL HISTORY OF FRANCE DURING THE WARS, 1793–1814
By Jacques Godechot, Professor of History and Dean of the Faculty of Letters in the University of Toulouse

Interaction between internal politics and war ................ 275–76
The Convention’s three phases ................................ 276–86
‘Girondin’ (21 September 1792 to 2 June 1793) ........ 276–78
‘Revolutionary’ (2 June 1793 to 27 July 1794) ............. 278–84
Government by Committees and the reign of Terror .. 279–81
The levée en masse, and economic controls; the climax . 281–84
‘Thermidorian’ (27 July 1794 to 31 October 1795) ....... 284–86
CONTENTS

The Directory ................................................. pages 286–94
Constitution of the year III (1795) .............................. 286-88
The 'first Directory' (1795–7) .................................. 288–90
The 'second Directory' (1797–9) ................................. 290–93
The 'third Directory' (June to November 1799) ................. 293–94
The coup d'état of Brumaire (November 1799) ................. 294–95
The Consulate: Bonaparte; institutions and legislation ........ 295–99
From Consulate to Empire ....................................... 299–302
Le Grand Empire: its scope and character; its downfall .......... 302–06

CHAPTER XI

THE NAPOLEONIC ADVENTURE

By Felix Markham, Fellow of Hertford College and Lecturer in Modern History in the University of Oxford

The Napoleonic Legend: origins and early career of Napoleon .... 307–08
Italian and Egyptian campaigns ................................... 309–11
Character of Napoleonic warfare .................................. 311–13
Conduct of the Waterloo campaign ............................... 313–16
Personality of Napoleon .......................................... 316–18
Methods of government ........................................... 318–22
Relations with the Pope ............................................ 322–23
Struggle with England ............................................. 323–24
The Trafalgar campaign ........................................... 325–26
The Continental System ............................................ 326–30
The Napoleonic Empire ............................................ 330–31
Policy in Italy, Germany and Spain. Attitude to Nationality .... 331–36

CHAPTER XII

FRENCH POLITICS, 1814–47

By G. de Bertier de Sauvigny, Professor in the Institut Catholique de Paris, and in the University of Notre Dame, U.S.A.

The first Restoration and the constitutional Charter .............. 337–40
The 'hundred days' and the second Restoration .................... 340–43
The 'chambre introuvable' and its dissolution, 1815–16 ........... 343–44
The experiment with a middle-of-the-road government, 1816–20 .... 344–47
The royalists in power ............................................. 347–55
The last years of Louis XVIII, 1822–4 ............................ 348–50
The first years of Charles X, 1824–7 ............................. 350–53
The approach to a crisis, 1828–30 ................................ 353–55
The revolution of July 1830, and the amended Charter .......... 355–56
Organisation and character of Louis Philippe's government .... 356–58
Royalist, Bonapartist and republican threats ..................... 358–60
Socialist and Catholic critics ..................................... 360–61
Louis Philippe's ministries to 1840 ................................ 361–63
Guizot and the oppositions, 1840-7 ............................... 364–66
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XIII

GERMAN CONSTITUTIONAL AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT, 1795–1830

By W.H. Bruford, Fellow of St. John's College and Emeritus Schröder
Professor of German in the University of Cambridge

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Germany at the outbreak of the French Revolution</td>
<td>367–73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reforms in Prussia, 1797–1806</td>
<td>373–76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prussia after Jena: method of dealing with serfdom</td>
<td>376–78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>reform of the administration</td>
<td>378–82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>military reorganisation</td>
<td>382–85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A new spirit in Prussia: educational reforms</td>
<td>385–87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reforms in Germany outside Prussia, to 1815</td>
<td>387–92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Germany after 1815</td>
<td>392–94</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XIV

THE AUSTRIAN MONARCHY, 1792–1847

By C.A. Macartney, Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The Emperor Francis and the bureaucracy</td>
<td>395–400</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Relations with Hungary, and the financial crisis</td>
<td>400–03</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The difficult years after 1815: the Emperor Ferdinand (1835–48)</td>
<td>403–06</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Economic and social changes</td>
<td>406–07</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National issues: Magyar, Slav, Italian, Polish, Bohemian</td>
<td>407–10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Germans in the Monarchy</td>
<td>410–11</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XV

ITALY, 1793–1830

By J.M. Roberts, Fellow of Merton College and Lecturer in Modern History in the University of Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Italy on the eve of the invasion of 1796</td>
<td>412–15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The French in Italy and the restoration of 1799–1800</td>
<td>415–20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The reorganisation of Italy by Napoleon</td>
<td>420–22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Economic effects of French domination</td>
<td>422–25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The effects on men's minds</td>
<td>425–26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sicily, 1806–14: Murat and Italy, 1813–15</td>
<td>426–28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The restorations in Italy</td>
<td>428–30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Revolutionary movements after 1815</td>
<td>431–35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Significance of the period in Italian history</td>
<td>435–37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A note on the main territorial changes in Italy, 1793–1814</td>
<td>438</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XVI

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL, 1793 to c. 1840

By Raymond Carr, Fellow of New College and Lecturer in Modern History in the University of Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The Enlightenment, the aristocracy and the Church</td>
<td>439–41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The middle classes, Agrarian conditions</td>
<td>441–43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Feebleness in foreign policy, 1789–1808: Godoy</td>
<td>443–44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National and popular resistance to France</td>
<td>444–45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Cortes and the Constitution of 1812</td>
<td>445–46</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

Patriots and Afrancesados in Spain .............................. pages 446-47
Reaction and revolutionary movements after 1814 .............................. 447-49
The Revolutions of 1820-23 in Spain and Portugal .............................. 449-52
Popular royalism and moderate liberalism to 1833 ......................... 452-55
Moderates and Progressives in Spain, 1833-40 .............................. 455-58
The soldier-politicians ........................................... 458-59
The defeat of Carlism and Miguelism ................................ 459-61

CHAPTER XVII
THE LOW COUNTRIES AND SCANDINAVIA

A. THE LOW COUNTRIES

By J. A. Van Houtte, Professor in the Faculty of Letters in the University of Louvain

Conservative and democratic Patriots ................................ 462-64
The French in Belgium (to 1796) .................................. 464-65
The Batavian Republic (to 1798) .................................. 465-66
Political resignation and economic development in Belgium (1797-1813) .... 466-69
Dutch reactions to assimilation and annexation; the restoration (1798-1814) ... 469-72
The kingdom of the United Netherlands created (1814-15) .................. 472-73
Difficulties of amalgamation ........................................ 473-78
Conflict with the Belgian Church .................................. 473-76
Attempt to 'dutchify' Belgium ..................................... 476-77
William I, the 'merchant king' ..................................... 477-78
Union of oppositions in Belgium (1828-30) ................................ 478-79
Reasons for the failure of amalgamation ................................ 479-80

B. SCANDINAVIA

By T. K. Derry, formerly Taberdar of The Queen's College, Oxford,

The Armed Neutrality (1780-3), and the Swedish conflict with Russia (1788-90) .................. 480-81
Scandinavia on the eve of the revolutionary age .............................. 481-83
The effects of the wars upon Scandinavia (to 1808) .............................. 484-87
The succession question in Sweden and the loss of Finland .................. 487-88
Distress in Norway .................................................. 488-89
Sweden at war, and in alliance, with Britain (1810-14) ...................... 489-90
The incorporation of Norway in Sweden ................................ 490-91
Scandinavian institutions and culture after the wars. Finland .................. 491-94

CHAPTER XVIII
RUSSIA, 1789-1825

By J. M. K. Vyvyan, Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge

Extent and population of the Empire: prevalence of serfdom ...................... 495-97
Industry and trade .................................................. 497-98
The nobles: privileged, but subservient to the Crown ......................... 498-500
Reactions to the French Revolution. Novikov and Radishchev .................. 500-01
Catherine II and Paul I. Alexander's early experiences .......................... 501-06
The young Emperor Alexander I and the 'unofficial committee' of his friends .... 507-09
Administrative and legislative reforms .................................. 509-11
CONTENTS

The Polish question and the ascendancy of France . . . . . pages 511–12
Speranskii’s constitutional, financial and legal projects (1808–12) . . . . 512–14
The reaction against France and the war of 1812 . . . . . . 514–16
The ‘Congress’ Kingdom of Poland (1815) . . . . . . . . . 516–17
Alexander I and Arakcheev: the military colonies . . . . . 517–19
Origins of the Decembrist conspiracy, and its suppression . . . . 519–21
The reign of Alexander I: military and diplomatic prestige; economic growth . 521–24

CHAPTER XIX

THE NEAR EAST AND THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE, 1798–1830

By C.W. Crawley

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Europe and the Near East</td>
<td>525–27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Islam and the Ottoman Empire</td>
<td>527–29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Egypt and its neighbours: Muhammad Ali</td>
<td>529–34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Adriatic and Illyria</td>
<td>534–36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Danubian Principalities (Roumania)</td>
<td>536–40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rumelia (Bulgaria)</td>
<td>540–41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Serbia</td>
<td>541–44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greece: the revival</td>
<td>544–47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>the War of Independence</td>
<td>547–50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Peace of Adrianople (1829)</td>
<td>550–51</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XX

RELATIONS WITH SOUTH AND SOUTH-EAST ASIA

By K.A. Ballhatchet, Reader in Indian History in the University of Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Prevailing confidence in Western ideas and methods for India</td>
<td>552–53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Expansion of Company rule in India: subsidiary alliances</td>
<td>553–58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British footholds in Malaya, Ceylon, Burma</td>
<td>558–60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Problems of administration and land-settlement</td>
<td>560–63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in India</td>
<td>560–65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The British in Ceylon. The Dutch in Java</td>
<td>563–65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Company losing commercial privileges</td>
<td>565</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Company and social change: missionaries and education</td>
<td>565–69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>European interest in Indian culture</td>
<td>569–71</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XXI

EUROPE’S ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL RELATIONS WITH TROPICAL AFRICA

By J.D. Fage, Director of the Centre of West African Studies and Professor of African History in the University of Birmingham

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Limited development of strategic and commercial interests</td>
<td>572–74</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>South Africa, and the east coast</td>
<td>574–77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commerce and the West African slave trade</td>
<td>577–78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The effects of abolition</td>
<td>579–82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Exploration of the interior; missionary activity</td>
<td>582–84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Political involvement on the coasts: Britain, France</td>
<td>584–86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>South Africa under British rule</td>
<td>586–87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Livingstone: Central and East Africa</td>
<td>587–90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XXII
THE UNITED STATES AND THE OLD WORLD, 1794–1828

By F. THISTLETHWAITE, Vice-Chancellor of the University of East Anglia and formerly Fellow of St. John’s College, Cambridge

John Quincy Adams and the Republican posture ........................................... pages 591–93
Population, boundaries and an open frontier ............................................. 593–95
Cotton and the Atlantic economy ................................................................. 595–98
Manufactures and ‘the American System’ .................................................. 598–602
Sectional Politics ......................................................................................... 602–07
The Constitution in practice ...................................................................... 607–10
A republican nation .................................................................................... 610–11

CHAPTER XXIII
THE EMANCIPATION OF LATIN AMERICA

By R.A. HUMPHREYS, O.B.E., Professor of Latin American History,
University College, London

The French in the Peninsula (1807–8) ....................................................... 612–13
Civil strife in Spanish America—loyalism, autonomy or independence? ........ 613–18
Disintegration of the Viceroyalty of the Rio de la Plata (1810–16) ............... 618–21
Bolivar in the north and San Martin in Chile (1811–18) ............................... 621–23
Events leading to Bolivar’s ascendancy (1815–22) ....................................... 623–26
Bolivar’s triumphs and despair (1823–30) .................................................. 627–28
Reconstruction in Spanish America .............................................................. 628–30
Brazil—Portuguese colony; kingdom; empire (1807–31) ............................... 630–33
The Spanish Islands and Central America (1810–24) ................................. 633–36
The roles of Britain and of the United States .............................................. 636–38

CHAPTER XXIV

THE FINAL COALITION AND THE CONGRESS OF VIENNA, 1813–15

By E.V. GULICK, Professor of History at Wellesley College, Massachusetts

Castlereagh’s Instructions (October 1813), and the negotiations at Châtillon ... 639–41
The Allies in Paris and the Bourbon Restoration (March-April 1814) .......... 642–43
The first Peace of Paris (30 May 1814) ....................................................... 644–45
The Netherlands and other problems in the Summer of 1814 ..................... 645–46
Sovereigns and ministers at Vienna: organisation of the Congress ............... 646–48
The conflict over Poland and Saxony (October-December, 1814) ............... 648–54
The deadlock resolved (December 1814-January 1815) ............................. 654–55
The settlement of Germany, the Netherlands and Scandinavia ................. 656–57
The settlement of Italy and Switzerland .................................................... 657–58
The Acte finale (9 June 1815). The slave trade and other problems ............... 658–59
The ‘hundred days’ and the second Bourbon restoration ............................ 659–61
The second Peace of Paris (20 November 1815) ......................................... 661–63
The Quadruple Alliance and the Holy Alliance ......................................... 663
Review of the settlement: the balance of power ....................................... 664–65
The roles of the leading statesmen .............................................................. 666–67
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XXV

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, 1815–30

By C.W. Crawley

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Issues arising from the 1815 settlement. Personal and national postures</td>
<td>668</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General desire for a balance of power. Conferences of Great Powers</td>
<td>669–70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander I: ‘Holy Alliance’ or ‘General Alliance’ (1815–19)</td>
<td>670–73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unrest in Italy, Germany and European Turkey (1819)</td>
<td>673–74</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plans for collective intervention against revolutions</td>
<td>674–77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Condemned by Britain in Spain and Portugal (1820)</td>
<td>674–75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Single Austrian intervention in Italy approved (1820–1)</td>
<td>675–77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Efforts to isolate Russo-Turkish disputes from the Greek question (1821–3)</td>
<td>677–79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Spanish colonies, and the French intervention in Spain (1822–3)</td>
<td>679–81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spanish America, Britain, the United States and the European Alliance</td>
<td>681–84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brazil, Portugal and Britain</td>
<td>684–85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Greek question</td>
<td>685–89</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A dilemma for both Russia and Britain (1823–5)</td>
<td>685–87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Russia, Britain and France allied (1826–7)</td>
<td>687–88</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The battle of Navarino and the Russo-Turkish war (1827–9)</td>
<td>688–89</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A balance of power preserved by varying methods</td>
<td>689–90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

APPENDIX: Note on the French Republican Calendar                   | 691–92|

INDEX                                                              | 693   |