PANINISARA

5TH EDITION

BY

PANDIT NABA CHANDRA NYÅYRATNA

Price Re. 1/6.

An excellent grammar for the Schools and Colleges.
It has been highly spoken of by Sanskrit scholars.

OPINIONS.

1. Mahamahopadhya Kaliprasanna Bhattacharjee,
   M. A.
   "Retired Principal Sanskrit College, Calcutta.

Says:—"Paninisara" by Pandit Naba Chandra Nyayaratna is an excellent grammar for our young learners reading Sanskrit in the Schools and Colleges. The Sidhanta Kaumudi is a compulsory text book in grammar for the M. A. Examination, and the most popular commentaries by Mallinath to the Sanskrit epics prescribed as text books by the University follow the system of Panini hence it is desirable that our students should be familiar with at least the most popular Sutras of Panini. Pandit Naba Chandra Nyayaratna has given explanations and illustrations of the important Sutras in Bengali, and has thus brought these Sutras within easy reach of our young learners. I would therefore recommend Paninisara for the Sanskrit students reading in our Schools and Colleges.

Such a book deserves every encouragement.

2. Mahamohopadhyya Dr. Satis Chandra
Vidyabhusan, M. A. Ph. D.
Principal Sanskrit College, Calcutta,
Fellow and examiner Calcutta University.

Says:—“I have read your Paninisara with the greatest interest. You have succeeded in extracting the essence of Panini in a most skilful way, and I hope your work will receive the approbation of all the Sanskritists of our country. I shall certainly recommend your book to our students who will be able to derive from it a comprehensive knowledge of Sanskrit grammar.”

3. Professor Bidhubhusan Goswami, M.A.
Senior Professor of Sanskrit, Dacca College.

Says:—The learned Pandit is an advocate for a good cause viz. the task of making our young boys of Schools and Colleges acquainted with the Sutras of Panini’s Grammar, and as such deserves encouragement. It may by given a trial in our Schools and Colleges.

4. Pandit Jajneswar Vidyabinode, B.A.

Says:—It is an excellent publication and has removed a long-felt want of our Sanskrit students.
5. Opinion of the Amrita Bazar Patrika.

7th December, 1911.

"PANINISAR"—Pandit Nava Chandra Nyayaratna has rendered a valuable service to the students of schools and colleges by publishing a grammar named 'Paninisar' in which the most important rules of Panini's grammar have been given with illustration and explanations in Bengali. As the first edition has already been exhausted within a very short period, the learned Pandit has brought out its second edition which has been much improved and enlarged with an inappreciable increase of price. This shows that this important work of grammar has been much appreciated by those for whom it is intended. The old Sanskrit text books and their commentaries generally prescribed by the University follow the system of Panini. As the commentaries by Mallinath are full of quotations from Panini, it appears to be almost incumbent to furnish the students with the means of studying the aphorisms of that grammar. Among the works adopted for this purpose, the publication of "Paninisar" seems to be most opportune. The arrangement adopted is well fitted for the beginners. Some improvement has also been effected in this edition which will tend to facilitate study on the verbal roots and their various inflection a study most difficult in the whole range of Sanskrit grammar. We hope the authorities will find their way to introduce this excellent book on grammar into the schools and colleges of the East and West Bengal. •

10th March, 1912.

We have received a copy of "Paninisar" by Pandit Naba Chandra Nyayaratna and have gone through the book with great interest. As the most popular commentaries by Mallinath follow the system of Panini, it is desirable that our young boys should be acquainted with the most popular 'Sutras' of "Panini." But the absence of any abridged edition of "Panini" in Bengali has been long felt. We are glad to find that the learned Pandit has removed that want by extracting the essence of "Panini" in a very skilful way.

An excellent book for the students preparing for the Matriculation Examination.

OPINION.

1. Professor Bidhubhusan Goswami, M.A.,
Professor of Sanskrit Dacca College.

I have gone through "A Manual of Sanskrit Translation" by Pandit Nava Chandra Nyayaratna and am of opinion that the book will be useful to our young learners of Sanskrit. The Calcutta University papers with their answers appended at the end of the book will do great good to the student preparing for the Matriculation Examination. The get up of the book is good and its price is not high.

(Sd.) Bidhubhusan Goswami, M.A.
Professor of Sanskrit Dacca College
2. Pandit Debendra Kumar Banerjee

Bidyaratna M.A.
Author of "Panini" and Lecturer in Sanskrit,
Dacca College.

I thank you very much for your gift of a copy of "A Manual of Sanskrit Translation". I am glad to be able to say that I have gone through the book with great interest. It will be of great help to the students of Schools and Colleges.

3. Professor Kalikrishna Goswami Vidyaratna,

M.A. B.L.

Senior Professor of Sanskrit, Jagannath-
College, Dacca
and examiner to the Calcutta University.

I have looked into Pandit Naba Chandra Nyayaratn's "Manual of Sanskrit Translation". I do not hesitate to say that the book has been very carefully compiled. The rules illustrations and exercises given will be of immense help to the young students of Sanskrit attempting translation work in our High Schools and in the junior classes of our Colleges in Bengal.

4. Babu Kumudini Kanta Ganguly, B. A.

Head Master,
Narayangunj H. E. School (Dacca).

I have glanced through its pages and am of opinion that it will prove a very useful companion to the young learners of Sanskrit. Every chapter every page and every line of the book bears clear testimony of your scholarship and experience in the art of teaching. The illustrations bearing on every point under discussion cover a very wide field and will thus have I hope a very clear and permanent impression upon the young minds. The exercises seem also to have been very judiciously arranged and are likely to help the boys memory by developing his intelligence. For your exercises and illustrations you have selected very fine passages which apart from the direct literary effects they are intended to have will also go a great way in strengthening the moral side of the students.

Indeed I don't think I have come across a better book of this class considered from all points. I have therefore had no scruples in recommending your book to my boys.

Head Maaster, B. L. High School, Serajganj.

10. Babu Narendra Nath Bhomik, B.A.
Head Master, Mohanpur H. E. School, (Pabna).

* * * I dont find any other book of the similar kind that can so safely and boldly meet the demands of the new regulation and as such. I can safely recommend it to the boys of our schools I have every reason to believe that the publication, will prove an invaluable aid to the students and remove a long felt want of such a treatise on the subject.

(Sd.) Narendra Nath Bhomik,
Head Master, Mohanpur H. E. School.

11. Babu Pyarimohan Chakrabarty B.A.
Head Master, Khilpara H. E. School,
* * * I think this book to be the best of its kind in the field.* * *

12. I have had much pleasure in going through a copy of "A manual of Sanskrit Translation" by Pondit Naba Chandra Nyayaratna. One may ask—What is the necessity of a book of this kind when there are so many in the field? I do not think a man after reading a few pages of the book will find it at all difficult to answer the question. The special features of the book are:

(i) A careful arrangement of the different principles of Grammar made interesting by way of good illustrations.

(ii) Highly valuable quotations from standard authors inculcating good moral principles.

(iii) Copious exercises given at the end of every lesson.

I was so very pleased with the reading of the book that I felt no hesitation to recommend it to my boys who I hope would be immensely benefited by it.

AMRITA BAZAR PATRIKA, 6th September, 1913.

KARMABHUMI:—In these days of materialistic education which is directly and indirectly eating into the very vitals of the constitution of our society it would be proper and advisable for our education department to introduce among the text-books taught in our schools and colleges the lessons inculcating the propriety and usefulness of our duties towards God and towards man. Owing to a lack of such instructions our young-men are going far beyond proper limits. Our domesticities which contributed so much to our happiness have been exceedingly loosened during the past decades. The down-ward course is gradually getting stronger and stronger and there is no endeavour to resist it. It has now become an incumbent duty of our University and the education department to educate our boys in a way which may be compatible with good citizenship,—with good membership of our family circle, where their affection, reverence and tender love are so very needful for the peace and happiness of their parents and relations.
We are exceedingly glad to find that Pandit Nava Chandra Nyayratna of Tippera has brought out an excellent book 'Karmabhumi' in Bengali which, if introduced into the text-books list for the matriculation examination, would no doubt remove the want indicated above. The style is chaste and elegant; the matters dealt on are exquisitively interesting and instructive and at the same time suitable to our grown up boys. We hope our text-book committee will not lose this opportunity of vindicating itself against the long standing accusation that is still hurled against it in connection with the selection of the text-books by enlisting this new and important publication for the Matriculation class. It is nicely printed and nicely bound, and at the same time its price is very cheap—being ten annas only. We have no doubt that it is far better than several nonsensical productions which are most unduly patronise by the indulgent members of the text-book committee.

THE BENGALI, Dated 28th March, 1914.

KARMABHUMI:—We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a copy of Karmabhumi by Pandit Naba Chandra Nyayratna. This book is far better than many a—production introduced among the text-books taught in our schools. The lucid and learned manner in which all the subjects have been discussed reflect much credit upon the author. The style is chaste and elegant. The matters dealt on are exquisitively interesting and instructive. We hope the authorities will find their way to introduce this excellent book into the text-book list for the matriculation.
