Tho' but a late grom, with a wondrous station,
Yet like a great elm it o'ershadows each station,
Et septup the office is still a large foe mart,
So joyous the crowd was, you'd thought it a glee mart.
GEM

But they raged at no news from the nations belligerent,
And I said, let 'm rage, since the air is refrigerant.
I then met large numbers, whose drink was not sherbet,
Who scarce could look up when they eyes the gas-glow met.
So when I had learn'd, from commercial adviser,
That mere gall for sand was the great fertilizer,
I bade Mr Eggle, altho' 'twas blind,
Get some from the clay-pit, and so get 'm real.
Then, just as my footstep was leaving the portal,
I met an elm large on a great Highland mortal,
With the maid he had woo'd by the Loch's flowry margelet,
And row'd in his boat, which, for rhyme's sake, call bargelet,
And by the to the breeze would have set the sail daily,
But it blew at that rate which our sailors term gale, eye.
I stumbled against the fair bride he had married,
When a mere gat at large from a cage that she carried;
She gave a loud screech! and I could not well blame her,
But, lame as I was, I'd no wish to get lamer.
So I made my escape—ne'er an antelope fleeter,
Lest my verse, like the poet, should limp thro' lag metes.
