CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION ........................................... 1

CHAPTER I

THE PROBLEM OF CONSCIOUSNESS

1. The concept of personality and analytic psychology ............. 11
2. Discontinuity in the psychical sphere .......................... 25
3. Psychology and physiology ................................... 46
4. Will and energy ......................................... 54

CHAPTER II

THE PROBLEM OF KNOWLEDGE

1. The kinds of knowledge ..................................... 60
2. The principles of knowledge .................................. 67
3. Quality and quantity ....................................... 85
4. Causality, elementary and ideal ................................ 95
5. Subject and object ......................................... 107

CHAPTER III

THE PROBLEM OF BEING

1. Problem and method ........................................ 116
2. Metaphysic as an art ........................................ 126
3. First type-phenomenon (unity or plurality?) ...................... 130
4. Second type-phenomenon (spirit or matter?) .................... 138
5. Third type-phenomenon (rest or development?) .................. 144
CHAPTER IV

THE PROBLEM OF VALUES

1. Introduction . . . . . . . . 153

A. The Ethical Problem

(a) Ethical work . . . . . . . . 158
2. The principle of continuity in ethics . . 158
   (b) The rationality of ethical valuations . . 165
3. The conflict of ideal values . . . . 165
4. The diversity of individual conditions . . 171

B. The Religious Problem

5. The principle of continuity in the philosophy of religion . . . . . . 173
6. The psychological position of religion . . 176
7. Historical forms of religion . . . . 181

NOTES . . . . . . . . . . 187