CONTENTS

TALES OF WIT AND HUMOUR

F. ANSTEW. The Talking Horse.
One expects fantastic happenings from the author of "Vice Versa." This story of the horse that bullied its master provides the most ludicrous of situations. 23

J. J. BELL. An Experiment.
Wee MacGregor was taken strangely ill—his symptoms were inexplicable, but his refusal to get out of bed was curiously stubborn. Impatience, however, overcame the creative urge. 46

G. K. CHESTERTON.
The Tremendous Adventures of Major Brown.
A member of the Club of Queer Trades thinks of a particularly queer one—and not only lives by it for a year according to the rules but flourishes like the green bay tree! 51

CHARLES DICKENS. Boots at the Holly Tree.
A runaway couple on the road to Gretna Green—but the sum-total of their ages was only sixteen! 75

J. S. FLETCHER. The Convict and the Clerics.
There is something both distinctive and commanding about a bishop's gaiters—and something exciting if the wearer is on the wrong side of the law. 85

IAN HAY. Natural Causes.
What happened when two people who disliked each other were wrecked on a desert island—a comedy of circumstances by a master of farcical and romantic situations. 102
| CONTENTS |
|-----------------|-----------------|
| W. W. JACOBS. The Lady of the Barge. |
| A classic foreshore yarn of the trouble on the "Arabella" (when the mate brought aboard the girl with whom he was walking out. |
| 129 |
| HERBERT JENKINS. The Bindles at the Zoo. |
| Bindle with his Cockney eloquence and Mrs. Bindle with her gentility have set the world a-laughing. At the Zoo their adventures evoke all the mirth of an English Bank Holiday. |
| 142 |
| CHARLES LAMB. Juke Judkins' Courtship. |
| It is the little things that count—he would have married the girl, but the night they went to the theatre he allowed his rival to buy the oranges! |
| 159 |
| STEPHEN LEACOCK. Soaked in Seaweed. |
| A nonsense novel which is a riotous satire on the old-fashioned sea story—as pungent with the salt tang of the ocean as a bowl of gold fish. |
| 166 |
| W. J. LOCKE. Adventure of the Kind Mr. Smith. |
| As Professor of French at a Girls' School he was unappreciated. He knew too much of the irregular habits of the French and too little of their irregular verbs—but he made a most convincing Baron. |
| 175 |
| A. A. MILNE. More Cricket. |
| The joys of holiday cricket—the crack of the ball on the willow—and lazy days in the sun. |
| 194 |
| BARRY PAIN. The Horse that Did No Wrong. |
| Eliza and her husband went for a holiday in a dog-cart, but they did not know anything about the horse—till afterwards! |
| 214 |
| "Q." Pipes in Arcady. |
| To come suddenly on a grove where apparently normal people are disporting themselves in the nude is startling—then funny, until one has learnt the why and wherefore of it. |
| 222 |
CONTENTS

MARK TWAIN.
_The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County._
A tale of a strategy which proved that there was more in the jumping frog than met the eye! 232

H. G. WELLS. _The Man Who could Work Miracles._
The hilarious tale of a man who found that his power to work miracles only placed him in the strangest predicaments. 238

P. G. WODEHOUSE. _Jeeves in Springtime._
* Our most popular living humorist reveals the inimitable Jeeves in the surprising, and not altogether successful rôle of matchmaker. 257

TALES OF LOVE AND ROMANCE

MICHAEL ARLEN.
_Major Cypress goes off the Deep End._
From the moment that Major Cypress sets out in high hopes wearing a gardenia we rejoice to be in the company of "These Charming People" of Mayfair of to-day. 275

ARNOLD BENNETT. _The Dog._
A romantic escapade at a "Five Towns" Wakes, and the rude awakening after the giddy madness of the roundabouts. 288

WARWICK DEEPING. _The Girl on the Mountain._
A passionate tale of love and jealousy in a setting of tropical luxuriance, by a modern master of romance. 300

GUY DE MAUPASSANT. _Happiness._
Corsica, dim and distant on the Mediterranean horizon, recalls a tale of simple and unselfish love that gave up the world for happiness. 351
CONTENTS

ELEANOR FARJEON. Anthony in Blue Alsatia.
How a paragraph in his morning newspaper gave Anthony a day-dream holiday among the sunny mountains of Blue Alsatia. 357

JEFFERY FARNOL. Fortune's Fool.
How a fine gentleman sat in the stocks for stealing a duck—but was liberated in time to prove that "all things are possible to love." 361

GILBERT FRANKAU. One Week at the Ritz.
How a poor young man took his beautiful wife to the Ritz, and how he gambled on making his personality foot the bill. 378

BRET HARTE. Mliss.
The tender romance of a girl of the mining camps amidst the life of rough-and-ready passions in the Far West. 395

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.
Drowne's Wooden Image.
He could carve exquisite figures in wood—one day he fashioned a beautiful woman, too lovely to adorn the prow of a ship—she was a "living" thing. 421

PHILIP MACDONALD. Harbour.
How a sailor finds in a sleepy English village a mystery and a love to eclipse his adventures on the seven seas. 433

EDEN PHILLPOTTS. Madonna of the Fireflies.
How the kindly stratagem of friends smoothed the path of true love for the little maid of Italy, and how the Madonna answered her prayers. 597

CHARLES READE. The Box Tunnel.
How a gallant soldier made a bet that he would kiss an unknown lady during a railway journey—and the complications that arose from it. 616
CONTENTS

SHEILA KAYE SMITH. The Mockbeggar.
The tale of a vagrant caravan in country lanes and of two modern lovers who learned that even conventional behaviour may bring happiness. 624

H. DE VERE STACPOOLE. Maru.
Blue lagoons, green palms, coral reefs and all the magic of the South Seas are here exquisitely woven into the bitter-sweet romance of an island beauty. 641

E. TEMPLE THURSTON. Some One Else’s Romance.
Romance in a tea shop—he promised to take her to Kew one Sunday, but she wore the wrong hat, and so he left that Romance to someone else. 654

ANTHONY TROLLOPE. The Journey to Panama.
A summer cruise of nearly a century ago—but the deck-games were not so different then—nor the romances that blossomed under the bright sun. 658

OSCAR WILDE. The Nightingale and the Rose.
How the Nightingale sang to the Rose beneath the window where the student loved the lady. A charming fantasy by one of our greatest prose stylists in the language. 680

TALES OF HIGH ADVENTURE

A. J. ALAN. My Adventure in Norfolk.
An extraordinary mystery at a bungalow in Norfolk, told with almost casual persuasiveness by an author whose voice is his only identity. 689

ALPHA OF THE PLOUGH.
On a Map of the Oberland.
Looking at a map of the Bernese Oberland recalls a holiday at Mürren, and a slip over a crevasse amidst the glacier solitudes that nearly spelt disaster. 696
CONTENTS

BARTIMEUS. The Greater Love.
The last night at sea before they reached the home port, laughter and great expectations, then suddenly—"Man Overboard." 704

J. D. BERESFORD. Reparation.
The delivery of a strange message from a dying friend to an unknown and elusive lady leads a man all over the globe. 719

PHYLLIS BOTTOME. Henry.
Henry was a tiger and he worshipped his master, who made him do strange tricks before the crowd. But one night Henry was tired! 741

AGATHA CHRISTIE. The Sign in the Sky.
How a murderer with an almost perfect alibi might have gone scot-free—but someone noticed a whiff of smoke from a train behind the hill. 749

WALTER DE LA MARE. All Hallowes.
There are strange intangible things round crumbling stones—and haunting adventures not of the body but of the soul. 765

WASHINGTON IRVING. The Italian Banditti.
Breathless adventures concerning the picturesque and desperate robbers of the Apennines—set amidst the frowning chasms and narrow passes. 795

EDGAR ALLAN POE.
A Descent into the Maelstrom.
A frail craft is drawn into the giddy vortex of a whirlpool and makes the fearful spiral descent down the glassy walls to unfathomable depths. 840

RAFAEL SABATINI. The King’s Messenger.
How an honour was conferred upon the Governor at Spanish Santiago—and how he fortified himself against the redoubtable buccaneer Captain Blood. 858
CONTENTS

SAKI. A Holiday Task.

They met by chance at a holiday hotel. Each thought the other was a person of importance, but the task of discovering who she really was appealed to him for quite another reason. 878

SIR WALTER SCOTT. The Two Drovers.

A Border tragedy of racial pride that would allow no insult to pass unavenged. 883

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON. The Bottle Imp.

The adventures of the owners of a precious yet evil bottle. It could be sold only for less than was paid for it. Someone must keep the bottle for ever! 909

EDGAR WALLACE. Solo and the Lady.

The Steward describes the ways of crooks and the cosmopolitan crowd on an Atlantic liner with all the mystery, excitement and humour one associates with Edgar Wallace. 939

MRS. HENRY WOOD. The Ebony Box.

It was an old box, and it held sixty golden guineas besides the fate of two generations—and its habit of disappearing so mysteriously had alarming and distressing consequences. 955

P. C. WREN. Buried Treasure.

The author of "Beau Geste" describes how the Foreign Legion stumbled across an ancient Roman Soldier. And Legionnaires do not believe in ghosts! 1008
ILLUSTRATIONS

IT WAS WITH HENRY, AND HENRY ALONE, THAT FLETCHER
DARED HIS NIGHTLY STUNT  by Gordon Nicoll  Frontispiece

IT WAS THE HEAD OF A MAN THRUST THROUGH THE COAL-
HOLE IN THE STREET  by Ernest Wallcousins  61

THE MATE SHOOK HIM OFF AND WENT IN WITH A SPLASH
,  by George Whitelaw  139

THERE WAS A SCREAM AND MRS. BINDLE STOOD BONNETLESS
by George Whitelaw  153

GEORGE FOLLOWED IT WITH A SLIGHTLY CONTEMPTUOUS
EYE . . . ALL THE WAY  by George Whitelaw  207

THE IMPOSSIBLE, THE INCREDIBLE, WAS VISIBLE TO THEM
ALL. THE LAMP HUNG INVERTED IN THE AIR . . .
by Will Owen  241

"HUGO," SHE SAID, "YOU ARE GOING TO PROPOSE TO ME AGAIN"
by Gordon Nicoll  283

FENTON BALE WAS STANDING STARING. . . .
by F. G. Moorson  343

THE BLOW SENT THE GLAZED HAT ONE WAY AND THE CUE ANOTHER. . . .
by Sep. Scott  417

HE CROSSED IT AND PLUNGED AGAIN, WITH RELIEF, INTO
THE TREES  by A. K. MacDonald  477

MR. AND MRS. DALRYMPLE STARED SILENTLY WITH THEIR MOUTHS OPEN  by F. G. Moorson  635

"A WOMAN SHOULD NEVER MARRY A MAN UNLESS SHE LOVES HIM"
by Leo Bates  669

AND WILIE SPARLING, WITH A BROKEN COLLAR-BONE,
COLLAPSED DRAMATICALLY ENOUGH  by Leo Bates  715

THE BOAT APPEARED TO BE HANGING, AS IF BY MAGIC,
UPON THE INTERIOR SURFACE OF A FUNNEL
by Lance Cattermole  853

THERE WAS KOKUA ON THE FLOOR . . .  by Leo Bates  935

AND THE UNIFORM WAS NOT OF THIS REGIMENT, NOR OF THIS CENTURY. . . .
by Gordon Nicoll  1011
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Editors wish to express their thanks for permission to include in this volume, stories by the following authors:

A. J. ALAN, My Adventure in Norfolk: to Charles Lavell, Esq.

ALPHA OF THE PLOUGH, On a Map of the Oberland (from Leaves in the Wind): to the Author and Messrs. J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd.

MICHAEL ARLEN, Major Cypress goes off the Deep End (from These Charming People): to the Author.

BARTIMEUS, The Greater Love (from Naval Occasions): to the Author.

J. J. BELL, An Experiment (from Wee MacGregor): to the Author.

J. D. BERESFORD, Reparation: to the Author.

PHYLLIS BOTTOME, Henry (from Strange Fruit): to the Author.

AGATHA CHRISTIE, The Sign in the Sky (from The Mysterious Mr. Quin): to the Author.

WALTER DE LA MARE, All Hallows (from The Connoisseur): to the Author.

GUY DE MAUPASSANT, Happiness (from Boule de Suif, translated by Marjorie Laurie): to Messrs. T. Werner Laurie, Ltd.

ELEANOR FARJEON, Anthony in Blue Alsatia (from Kaleidoscope): to the Author.

JEFFERY FARNOL, Fortune's Fool (from The Shadow): to the Author and Messrs. Sampson, Low, Marston & Co., Ltd.

J. S. FLETCHER, The Convict and the Clerics (from The Malachite Jar): to the Author.

GILBERT FRANKAU, One Week at the Ritz (from Men, Maids and Mustard Pots): to the Author and Messrs. Hutchinson & Co., Ltd.

IAN HAY, Natural Causes (from The Lucky Number): to the Author and Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd.
W. W. Jacobs, The Lady of the Barge: to the Author.

Herbert Jenkins, The Bindles at the Zoo: to Messrs. Herbert Jenkins, Ltd.

Stephen Leacock, Soaked in Seaweed (from Nonsense Novels): to the Author and Messrs. John Lane the Bodley Head, Ltd.

W. J. Locke, The Adventure of the Kind Mr. Smith (from The Joyous Adventures of Aristide Pujol): to the Author and to Messrs. John Lane the Bodley Head, Ltd.

Philip MacDonald, Harbour: to the Author and Messrs. Wm. Collins, Sons & Co., Ltd.

Barry Pain, The Horse that Did No Wrong: to the Author's Executors.

"Q," Pipes in Arcady (from News from the Duchy): to the Author and Messrs. J. W. Arrowsmith (London), Ltd.

Rafael Sabatini, The King's Messenger (from Chronicles of Captain Blood): to the Author and Messrs. Hutchinson & Co., Ltd.

Saki, A Holiday Task (from Beasts and Super Beasts): to the Author and Messrs. John Lane the Bodley Head, Ltd.

Sheila Kaye Smith, Mockbeggar (from Joanna Godden Married): to the Author and Messrs. Cassell & Co., Ltd.

H. de Vere Stacpoole, Maru: to the Author.

E. Temple Thurston, Some One Else's Romance: to the Author's Executors.

Oscar Wilde, The Nightingale and the Rose: to Captain V. B. Holland.

P. G. Wodehouse, Jeeves in Springtime: to the Author and Messrs. Herbert Jenkins, Ltd.

"Gimme my scarlet tie,"
   Says I.
"Gimme my brownest boots and hat,
Gimme a vest with a pattern fancy,
Gimme a gel with some style, like Nancy,
And then—well, it's gimes as I'll be at,
Seein' as it's bangkolidye,"
   Says I.

BARRY PAIN.  Bangkolidye.