CONTENTS:

On the Origin of Evil.—Reason and Revelation .......... 1
On the Law of Conscience .................................. 49
On the Intellect and the Emotions ....................... 71
Geology and Atheism ....................................... 93
On the Aristocracy and Education ....................... 115
On some Branches of Knowledge .......................... 137
Macaulay's Characteristics ............................... 167
On Macaulay's Estimate of Bacon's Philosophy ......... 191
Poetry and Insanity .......................... .............. 219
Poetry and Civilization .................................... 251
John Milton. His Age—his Intellectual and Moral
Character .................................................. 283
John Milton as a Poet ..................................... 301
On Milton as compared with Dante and Tasso .......... 321
On the Theory of Human Perfectibility ................. 347