DEDICATION

To HODGSON PRATT, Esq.

Honored Sir,—Permit me to state that my chief inducement in requesting your acceptance of the dedication of this little book, is a firm persuasion that it is your constant endeavour to promote the education of the mass of the people of this country in their mother tongue; and to raise them both morally and intellectually. It is through your exertions and enthusiastic and active measures that South Bengal has been blessed with so many improved Vernacular and Anglo-vernacular Schools, Reading Rooms, Debating Clubs, &c. &c.

But though this be my chief motive for seeking permission to prefix your name to this little volume, an additional inducement, arises from the kind and valuable advice and assistance, by which I have been enabled to complete it. Hence it is with no ordinary feelings of gratitude and pleasure that this work is very respectfully dedicated to you.

I have the honor to be,

Honored Sir,
Your most humble and obedient servant,

KALIDAS MOITER.
